Drive Inland From Lingayen Gulf

Patrols of Invasion Force Reach Agno River on Luzon

By WILLIAM B. DICKINSON
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Luzon, Jan. 11.—(BUP)—Sixth Army vanguards drove 18 to 20 miles inland from the Lingayen Gulf today, overrunning perhaps 30 cities, towns and villages and at least one airdrome in a powerful drive across the plains of central Luzon on to within 90 to 95 miles of Manila.

Reliable reports at Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said that at least a few patrols already had reached the Agno River at a point where it bisects the Luzon Plains some 20 miles inland from the 20-mile-wide invasion beachhead.

The Japanese had been expected to make their first defence stand along the Agno, but military sources suggested that the enemy, caught off balance, would be unable to organize quickly enough to defend the river and instead would attempt to stem the American advance farther south.

CITIES PASSED

Already behind the Americans were the cities of Lingayen with its airport, Dagupan, Mangaldan and San Fabian, as well as a cluster of 25 to 30 lesser towns and hamlets.

Services Disrupted

15 Vancouver Schools Close Due to Strike

VANCOUVER, Jan. 11.—(CP)—Increasing disruption of services in three coast cities became apparent as 15 of Vancouver's 60 public schools closed down on the third day of a strike of 2,700 members of the street railway-men's union (AFL) here, in Victoria and in nearby New Westminster, B.C.

Teachers in the schools were unable to find transportation as their gasoline reserves became exhausted. In Toronto, G. S. Gray, Dominion transit controller, said his department was mainly concerned with maintaining war industries and public health services. Employees of the British Columbia electric company's transportation service, on strike since Tuesday protesting the national war labor board's rejection of their wage demands, maintained their pickets at the main car barns in the three cities.

OFFICIALS SILENT

Union, company and regional war labor board officials remained silent on the deadlock. Federal labor officials were equally non-committal following Labor Minister Mitchell's statement terming the stoppage illegal and calling on strikers to return to work.

No incidents were reported from picket lines in the three cities.

War industries were functioning almost normally under emergency transportation arrangements made by each plant and attendance at downtown offices was almost complete.

Down town stores reported sparse crowds and low sales.

Bulge "Caving In"

Says Spokesman For Montgomery
FIELD MARSHAL MONTGOMERY'S HEADQUARTERS, Jan. 11.—(CP)—Field Marshal Von Rundstedt's Belgian bulge on the north, south and west is "caving in," Field Marshal Montgomery's spokesman said today.

He used the expression to describe latest operations on the west front where British and American troops are stabbing into the German salient.

"There is no opposition—nothing is in our way," the spokesman said.

Strike Settled

VICTORIA, Jan. 11.—(CP)—The strike of 63 bus drivers of the Vancouver Coach Lines, Ltd., called last Saturday morning, terminated after a five-hour meeting beginning at 10:30 last night, and the men will resume work Friday morning.

British General Killed on Bridge Of U.S. Warship

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
LONDON, Jan. 11.—(BUP)—The war office announced that Lt. Gen. Sir Herbert Lumsden was killed by enemy air action Jan. 6 while on the bridge of a United States warship in the Pacific.

In a message to Prime Minister Churchill, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, under whom General Lumsden was serving, said "it is superfluous for me to speak of the complete courage which this officer so frequently displayed in my immediate presence during operations in this theatre during the last year."

"His general service and usefulness to the Allied cause was beyond praise and his loss has caused the deepest sorrow to all ranks. My own personal sorrow is inexpressible."

Reds Foil German Relief Offensive

By BRUCE W. MUNN
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, Jan. 11.—(BUP)—Soviet front dispatches said today that Russian siegers of Budapest had occupied nearly all of Pest and the industrial island of Csepel, and a Red Army counter-blow had snuffed out Nazi hopes of breaking the ring around the Hungarian capital.

Hungarian front reports relayed by Moscow said the critical phase of the battle has passed, and the Red Army had the situation well in hand.

The mop-up of Pest, the part of the capital on the east bank of the Danube, was complete except for small nests of resistance, while Csepel island and its 25 armament factories were firmly in Russian hands.

The failure of the German relief offensive west of Budapest was taken in Moscow to mean that the defence forces now concentrated in the hills of Buda would fight house by house and street by street, as did the defenders of Pest.

Edmonton, Montreal Seen as Greatest American Airports

MONTREAL, Jan. 11.—(BUP)—The air route over northwest Canada "enabled the Russians to push the Germans out of Stalingrad," the Montreal French-language daily "Le Canada" said editorially today and reported that 5,000 planes built in the United States have been flown from Edmonton to Russia.

"Canada furnished the landing fields, and her pilots have established the air routes," said the editorial.

"Edmonton and Montreal have strongly established their positions. If they wish—for the thing will not be accomplished without struggle—they will be the two great airports of America," said the paper.

Nazis Pick Tehran For "Big 3" Meeting

LONDON, Jan. 11.—(BUP)—The German radio today began its expected speculation on the location of the Allied Big Three meeting when a Transocean dispatch broadcast from Berlin quoted a Wilhelmstrasse spokesman as saying, "Tehran is now the favorite place with regard to the imminent conference."

British Tanks Head For Front

British-manned Sherman tanks move up to support British infantry in the attack on the German Ardennes salient in Belgium. An Allied assault in this sector has cracked the Nazis' line, cutting all but one of their escape roads, and enemy forces have fallen back for a showdown fight.

American Forces Capture La Roche

By J. EDWARD MURRAY
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

PARIS, Jan. 11.—(BUP)—American forces today captured La Roche, northern anchor of the fast-shrinking Ardennes Salient from which the Germans were fading back into the Siegfried defences beyond the border of the Reich.

British patrols stabbed unopposed four miles into the now-spongy nose of the Belgian bulge, and the U.S. Third Army on the south reported considerable German movement to the east and northeast along the roads back to Germany.

Today's reports were the first indicating that the Nazis were pulling out of anything faster than a snail's pace. The exit from the pocket took on a briskness in keeping with the collapse of its defences in key sectors all around its rim.

American Seventh Army troops in Northeastern France gained up to two miles in a number of local attacks between Bitch and Saarbrücken, but to the southeast the Germans stepped up the pressure north of the Haguenau forest and, on the eastern side of the Bitch bulge.

FOUGHT IN STREETS

British United Press correspondent C. R. Cunningham in a dispatch from U.S. First Army headquarters, reported the fall of La Roche at 9 a.m. today after about 24 hours of street fighting.

The road junction was one of the most important towns on the north side of Marshal Karl Von Rundstedt's salient. It was doomed yesterday by an American victory in a tank battle to the northeast, after which Lt. Gen. Courtney Hodges troops drove into La Roche itself.

The Germans pulled out suddenly after hours of stubborn resistance. Continued on Page 2, Col. 1

Private Writes Thanks to Alex, Gets an Answer

LONDON, Jan. 11.—(CP)—Pie Charlie English, a 29-year-old Cockney, marched against the Gustav line and, as the artillery support cleared his path, thought: "Blimey, what a barrage. It must have taken brain to think this one out. I'll write old Alex a letter of thanks."

He did, too, and got an answer—from Field Marshal Harold Alexander. Home after six years of soldiering, Pie, English's proudest possession is his letter in the hand-writing of the Supreme Allied Commander, Mediterranean theatre.

Four Fliers Safe As Plane Explodes

VANCOUVER, Jan. 11.—(CP)—Four airmen parachuted to safety but the fate of three other crew members was "unknown" following an explosion last night aboard a Liberator bomber on a practice bombing flight north of Point Roberts, Wash., Western Air Command announced.

Three of the rescued fliers were picked up shortly after the accident and a fourth was found safe late last night.

The four-engine bomber was from an RCAF west coast base. The three crewmen who parachuted from the aircraft were picked up south of Tsawwassen Beach, Wash. An extensive air, sea and ground search is in progress to determine the fate of the other four men aboard the plane.

They Stopped Racing BING SOLD HIS NAGS BACK TO THE BREWERY

By BOB HOPE

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 11.—Well... they stopped horse-racing the first of the year. That's 'd give Crosby's a chance to come in. But, seriously, Bing had gotten rid of his horses quite a while ago. When the gas shortage got serious, he sold them back to the brewery.

A lot of people called Fatty's nags, "Hay Burners," but that wasn't true! They never got that hot. The jockeys won't have to worry, though. They can all go back to their old jobs modelling for Pullman uppers.

Closing the tracks will also save me a lot of two-dollar bills. I used to make all my bets on the nose. Of course, a lot of people didn't have my natural equipment and just stuck a hat pin through the form chart.

It should also save a lot of gas and tires. Most of the tracks are 20 miles from Hollywood and I wouldn't say there were a lot of people driving out in the old days, but I used to park my car and then walk past my house three times getting to the track.

Admiral Jonas H. Ingram, commander-in-chief of the U.S. Atlantic fleet, who is pictured above, said in his first press interview since assuming his new command, says that it is "possible and probable that New York City or Washington will be hit by buzz bombs within the next 30 or 60 days."

Nine City Offices Entered Overnight

Breaking and entering into at least nine offices in the top floor of the LaFleche building, sometime Wednesday night, thieves escaped with a safe containing about $200, after removing an office window, according to city police.

Shortly before noon, investigators stated, the safe, minus the dial, was located at 111 avenue and 136 street. The dial was discovered in an office in the LaFleche building by police earlier in the day.

The safe and its contents were said to be owned by an investment company and measured about three feet by 1½ feet. Managers of other offices in the building had not discovered whether anything was missing at an early hour Thursday.

According to police, the discovery of the breaking and entering was made by the janitor, Tony Christon. In reporting the matter, the latter asked that "someone come and investigate as I want to clean up the place."

Police found that entry into the premises had been made through a skylight window about the centre of the building. The glass had been broken.

Investigations are continuing.

The flame ignited Jackson's grease-soaked overalls and in an instant he was ablaze from head to foot. He died Tuesday.

Shifted From Norway Nazis Ordered to Hold Reno Line at All Costs

ROME, Jan. 11.—(AP)—German troops shifted from Norway have been thrown into battle in Italy with orders from Hitler to hold the Reno river line in the Adriatic sector "at all costs," according to German prisoners captured yesterday.

The 1st Canadian Corps, attached to the British 8th Army last week, reported in action two days ago on the Reno front, to which they had driven the Germans in a steady advance of several days.

Ten prisoners—all from the 710th division formerly assigned to a coastal defence line in Norway—were taken when 8th Army units counter-attacked an enemy patrol on the south bank of the Reno.

STIFFER RESISTANCE

Enemy resistance has already stiffened considerably along this east-west waterway and the strip of land between the Comacchio Lagoon and the Adriatic, where the

"Slur on Monty" Laid to Bradley

LONDON, Jan. 11.—(CP)—The London Daily Mail said editorially today that the press conference, of Lt. Cmdr. Omar Bradley, United States general, on the western front Tuesday was "a slur on Monty" because Gen. Bradley said that Field Marshal Montgomery's command of the United States 1st and 8th Armies was temporary.

The Mail recently asserted without confirmation that Field Marshal Montgomery had foreseen the German breakthrough through Belgium and had taken command of the northern group of armies on his own initiative.

Today's editorial said Gen. Bradley's statement "bears only one interpretation. It is that Field Marshal Montgomery is good enough to be given the position of responsibility in an emergency, but when the danger is over and the ravages of the enemy are made good his services are no longer required except in a comparatively subordinate capacity."

"It can be said at once that the British people would view with dismay the relegation of this great soldier to the somewhat mesager share of the front which he held before Von Rundstedt's breakthrough."

Lupe Velez Leaves Estate of $150,000

Edmontonian Helps

Tired of Living in Tents, Fliers Build Own House

WITH THE RCAF IN ITALY, Jan. 11.—(CP)—Ft. Lt. Cecil Mohs of Edmonton, bombing leader of a Wellington Squadron, and his two buddies got tired of living in tents in the cold Italian winter, so they just up and built themselves a house.

An RCAF overseas press release last night said the "villa" the men named it "Casa Grande"—was put together from stones, bricks and other materials salvaged from bombed buildings in a nearby town. It has two rooms, a fireplace and a porch. A Mohs' partner in the enterprise are Ft. Lt. George Abbot of Elk Point, Alta., and an RAF officer.

Ft. Lt. Mohs is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Mohs, 11615 85 street. Early in April, 1943, while being convoyed overseas, Ft. Lt. Mohs was aboard a ship that was torpedoed and sunk in the North Atlantic, and after hours in the water he was rescued. He was promoted from the rank of Flying Officer in 1944, and has been on operational duty in the Mediterranean theatre of war since that time. He enlisted in Edmonton in October, 1941.

La Roche Is Captured

Anchor of German Salient Falls

and all at once the Americans found themselves flailing at this air. Only nine prisoners were sent back in the first hour after the fall of La Roche.

SOME STIFF BATTLES

Supreme headquarters reported that resistance in many sectors of the bulge remained stiff as the Germans struggled to keep its walls propped up until they could get out from under the crushing impact of the British and American close-in from the north, south and west.

The four-mile bound forward from the British was made from the area of Massagne to the St. Hubert-La Roche road some where in the neighborhood of the Champion junction.

If, as the report indicated, the Germans had withdrawn behind that road, it meant they probably were giving up the entire area in front of the next lateral line which runs through Houffalize.

CUT HIGHWAY

As Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army reported enemy movements to the east and northeast, its western flank swung forward over high ground just south of St. Hubert, southwestern anchor of the salient, from which the Nazis reported they had pulled out.

To the east, the Third Army cut the Bastogne-St. Hubert road around Tillet some 10 miles west of Bastogne. On the eastern side of the 35-mile southern front, an American gain of a mile and a half cleared Harlange and carried within 500 yards of Wiltz.

After capturing La Roche, the Americans pushed on to the southwest and blocked the road coming up from St. Hubert, which the British had cut further southwest.

ORDERLY RETREAT

All accounts indicated that the Nazi retreat still was being conducted in good order over the few snow-clogged roads remaining open in the center of the salient, with small rear guard formations battling desperately to cover the withdrawal.

(London newspapers quoted a Berlin dispatch from the Swedish newspaper Aftonbladet as saying that the Ardennes salient had been reduced to six miles at its narrowest point and the German forces would be withdrawn into the Siegfried line "at any moment.")

The German high command said that "in order to support more effectively the deep flanks of the German front in the Ardennes, the part protruding westward across the Ourthe was withdrawn without enemy pressure" and the town of St. Hubert was abandoned.

CLOSE IN ON Foe

Marshal Montgomery's British and American troops who broke the back of the German drive in eight days of furious counter-offensive crowded in on the retreating enemy from all side in a bid to seal their victory with the complete destruction of Marshal Karl von Rundstedt's battered divisions.

Also 16,000 prisoners were known to have been rounded up by the U.S. First Army since the start of the Nazi offensive on Dec. 16 and correspondents at the front estimated that the salient, which once measured almost 1,400 square miles, had been compressed to about 180 miles. The number of prisoners taken by the British was not divulged.

At the western end of the salient, British armored spearheads pushed ahead swiftly and their outposts frequently had difficulty keeping pace with the German retreat.

BEYOND HOMME RIVER

At least six villages were occupied in rapid succession as the British swung eastward from the Rochefort area and southward from Marche, northwestern corner of the salient.

Latest accounts put the British well beyond the Homme river, with their drive hampered mainly by fog and a heavy snowfall and thick Nazi minefields.

American First Army forces driven up along the northern wall of the Ardennes near the German-Belgian frontier struck down across the base of the salient southeast of Malmédy and Stavelot early today, threatening Rundstedt's last line of retreat.

First reports said the Americans met no opposition in their advance, but they were moving cautiously to avoid a possible Nazi ambush.

TRY TO CUT BASE

First word of the German retreat, which appeared to mark the closing phase of the battle of the Ardennes, came in a front dispatch from British United Press War Correspondent C. R. Cunningham.

Cunningham reported that two American Army Corps, the Fifth and the 18th Airborne, were cutting down into the base of the enemy salient in what appeared to be the opening blow of a drive to envelope and destroy the fleeing Germans.

Patrols of 18th Airborne Corps, he said, pushed "deeply" south of Malmédy and east of Stavelot today without making contact with the enemy.

Farther to the west, American

Nazi Captive Tells Court He's Very Hard

Any man who had been kept captive behind a barbed-wire enclosure for three years, and then meeting a woman, would be apt to forget himself, Reinhold Bauer, German prisoner-of-war, charged with indecent assault of Mrs. Nettie (Naja) Hut, North Saskatchewan, told Magistrate Harold L. Howe, K.C., at his hearing entered its fourth day in city police court.

The chances of running a risk, so far as the husband of a woman was concerned, depended a lot on the woman herself, the accused man stated, and said if she hadn't played with him he would never have gone further.

Bauer, who went on the witness stand Wednesday morning, was replying Thursday to the examination of Crown Prosecutor Guy Patterson K.C., who suggested that as a soldier, the accused had been trained to be hard and to be without sentiment.

Hut, husband of Naja, had seemed very friendly when he and another German soldier began going there, continued the witness. For the last eight days of their visit, Hut was never there, he said.

The crown prosecutor asked the accused if he had given any thought of consideration to the husband, and whether the latter had attempted to "beat-up" on his wife at the time.

WOLF DO SOMETHING
The accused replied that if he was a married man and caught a prisoner-of-war kissing his wife he would "like to do something." At least, he said, he would confront the man and order him out of the premises and forbid him to return.

Kurt Wolfanger, second prisoner-of-war charged with indecent assault to Vera Zukowski, sister of Mrs. Hut, was called to the witness stand, where he told of meeting the two women as he, Bauer and a third man, also a prisoner-of-war, were walking through the farm a few days after their arrival in the district.

Wolfanger told the court he was born Sept. 16, 1921, at Wiedelsker, Saar, Germany, and that he had been a private in the 2nd Company, Honored Engineers of the 33rd battalion, May 4, 1941. He was a member of Rommel's Afrika Corps and was captured at Tobruk Dec. 9, 1941.

"ONE TOO MANY"
He met Bauer about six months ago and the two had become fast friends. When they met the two girls at Northville on Sept. 28 or 29, there was "one man too many," he said, referring to the third man in their party when they went to the farm for the first time.

"How did you eliminate the third man?" he was asked.

"We saw there was one man too many and one just stayed away," was the reply.

Steady Increase of Women Employees in Industry Noted
OTTAWA, Jan. 11.—(CP)—A steady increase in the proportion of women employees in Canadian industry was reported yesterday by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

At Oct. 1, 1944, firms in leading industrial groups reporting to the bureau showed 1,406,132 men and 521,979 women employed. This meant 271 women for 1,000 men, against 262 per 1,000 a year previous and 235 on Oct. 1, 1942.

Of the 521,979 women employed at Oct. 1, 1944, the largest group—332,180 of 63 per cent—were in manufacturing. There were 88,732 in trade, 35,854 in finance and 27,659 in services.

Earl Godfrey as a candidate. He was one of Canada's most distinguished airman whose election would prove "the determination of our people to achieve a better war effort and a better Canada when the war is won."

Mr. Jolliffe said that at the next federal general election "the CCF will enter that election in every province, not with the idea of winning a few more seats or the balance of power or anything of that kind, but with the determination to win a majority, to elect a CCF government with M. ## Munitions Minister Arrives in Kingston On Unofficial Visit

Kingston, Jamaica, Jan. 11.—(CP)—Munitions Minister Howe arrived here Tuesday by plane accompanied by T. H. Hogg, general manager of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission, and two Canadian businessmen.

The others in the party are Charles F. Sise, chairman of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada and vice-president of the Bank of Montreal, and R. E. Powell, president of the Aluminum Company of Canada.

In an interview, Mr. Howe said the visit was unofficial and added that his companions were interested in bauxite deposits discovered recently in Jamaica. Canada's main source of the important ore at present is British Guiana.

Yank Patrols At Agno River On Luzon Isle

In the invasion area. All four initial beachheads had been linked and army engineers were enlarging the Lingayen airdrome for imminent use.

(A Tokyo broadcast heard in London said a second American convoy still was in the waters west of Lingayen Gulf and a third of Japanese in the central Philippines, "unable to continue northward because of Japanese air attacks." With the landing on Luzon, Tokyo said, the battle of the Philippines has reached the "decisive stage.")

(A Japanese radio broadcast claimed a new American landing on Lingayen Gulf was attempted yesterday near Rabon, six miles north of San Fabian, but was "completely wiped out within 10 minutes" by massed artillery fire. The Japanese radio said considerable numbers of American tanks were going ashore and that "immense battles" are now being fought.)

(The Japanese Domei News Agency reported that American tanks advanced east from San Fabian yesterday and drove into Japanese positions from which they were dislodged in bloody fighting. Late said the Japanese, the Americans again attacked and infiltrated Jap positions. Other Japanese reports asserted their air forces had sunk "many large-type warships and transports" and that the Americans ashore had been "cut off" from their sea-borne supplies.)

DISCOUNT REPORT
(A BBC broadcast reported by the Blue Network said American troops were less than 100 kilometers from Manila, but this would put them far across the Agno and it appeared that the announcer confused his kilometers and miles.)

Despite the initial lack of resistance, however, the Japanese feverishly were rushing up troops, armor and supplies from southern Luzon under a deadly barrage of bombs, shells and bullets from American carrier and land-based planes. American aircraft roamed the skies unchallenged.

Organized and bitter resistance, bad weather or other such factors might make the battle for Manila a long campaign, a break or two might see American troops in the capital within a matter of weeks instead of months as first thought.

DEVELOPS INTO RACE
When I remarked to MacArthur that I would like to take a vacation after the fall of Manila and would like to know when to plan it, he merely smiled and said: "I'll get you started just as soon as I can."

The campaign fast was developing into a race between Japanese forces seeking to stem the drive on Manila and Sixth Army columns pushing south. A front dispatch said American armor broke through to the capital was considered possible.

H. D. Quigg, British United Press war correspondent at the front, said the main resistance appeared to be sporadic machine gun and rifle fire. He said Filipino natives reported that the Japanese commander and his forces began evacuating the Lingayen area at the start of the American bombardment Saturday.

Drastic Action Is Taken in States To Conserve Coal
WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—(AP)—In drastic steps to meet an "impending coal shortage," James F. Byrnes called yesterday for a reduction in temperatures in all homes and public buildings in the United States to a maximum of 68 degrees.

In addition, the war mobilization director asked the war production board to prohibit "all outdoor advertising, ornamental and display lighting" except those in areas where flush gas and hydro-electric power can be shown to be available without drawing on the coal supply.

The director of defense transportation was requested to take steps to eliminate special and excursion trains and any increase in passenger schedules to resort areas.

City Property Sales Exceed Expectations

Sales of city owned property during the first 10 days of 1945 are exceeding expectations of city land department officials, and if negotiations for purchases now pending are completed, January, 1945, will be a record one in the history of the department, it was stated by an official on Thursday.

A feature of the sales so far made during the month is the number of purchases made on city business premises are to be built. Sale of property for dwellings continues brisk, and 16 have been made so far this month. The average price of the home to be erected is stated to be $4,000.

BUY FOUR LOTS

A purchase was made by the Consolidated Fruit Co. of four lots immediately north of 103 avenue on 105 street. The purchase price of these lots was $19,000. It is the company's intention to erect a warehouse on the site, the cost of which will exceed $50,000.

A drugstore will be built at 82 avenue and 105 street, the estimated cost of this building being placed at $5,000. Another drugstore will be at the 220th and 86 street and 118 avenue, the cost of which is $5,000. The south-east corner lot on Jasper avenue and 111 street has been sold, and the purchaser intended to build a beauty parlor, light lunch room, and two suites on the second story.

The south-east corner of 103 avenue and 105 street was sold to John Paskak and George Diduck for $3,000. It is their intention to construct a modern building on this property to cost a minimum of $25,000.

A grinder shop of cement construction will be erected by John Segatte at 98 street and 102 avenue. The building is estimated to cost $3,000.

Sales to date total close to $40,000, it was stated, and it is anticipated that the $100,000 mark will be reached if present negotiations are completed. Last January sales totalled $20,000.

escape lifeline is still open after the German flight from Canadian-captured St.-Albert.

Another patrol class near the Senio gave further evidence of the critical German manpower problem. A patrol from the 28th Division fled after being shot up by British units. The prisoners and dead who were left behind were found to be Italian members of the Todt organization, a semi-military labor corps.

The prisoners claimed to have been driven ahead of the enemy patrol against their own will as a protective screen for German troops.

WEATHER HANDICAP
Meanwhile, drifted snow and icy roads continued to confine action all along the 5th and 8th Army fronts to patrol actions.

The Germans hurled sporadic harassing artillery fire at American positions south of Bolonne and German snipers were active in the forward areas.

Fighters and fighter-bombers were out in strength yesterday making widespread attacks on enemy communications in northern Italy.

Spanish Exiles Plan Republic

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Exiled members of the Spanish Republican Cortes (parliament) met here yesterday in the first step toward organization of a government in exile and re-establishment of the republic. Seventy-five deputies and 1,000 spectators crowded into the ballroom of the Club France for the opening session, called to order by Diego Martinez Barrio, president of the Cortes in 1939.

Board to Take Choicest Bacon For U.K. Export
OTTAWA, Jan. 11.—(CP)—To maintain volume and quality of Canadian bacon shipments to Britain, the Canadian meat board is undertaking to requisition a considerable part of the bacon production of inspected abattoirs, the agriculture department announced yesterday.

The regulation will take for export the product of all Grade A hogs as well as a considerable part of Grade B1 hogs, but the exact percentage of the product of B1 hogs taken for export will be varied from time to time to leave approximately normal supplies of pork for distribution in Canada.

The department said that "record quantities" of beef and pork products were shipped from Canada to Britain in 1944. Bacon purchased under the current agreement totalled 686,000,000 pounds, or approximately 5,800,000 hogs, compared with shipments aggregating 675,000,000 hogs under the previous contract.

WANT ALL AVAILABLE
(Under agreements with the United Kingdom, Canada planned to supply 500,000,000 pounds of bacon in both 1944 and 1945, a total of 1,000,000,000 pounds as a minimum. British authorities are anxious to take whatever additional quantities are available.)

The meat board also bought 13,700,000 pounds of pork offals, 2,000,000 pounds more than 1943; 31,200,000 pounds of canned pork, an increase of 18,500,000 pounds over 1943; 1,800,000 pounds of hog casings, 193,000 pounds more than in 1943, and 9,000,000 pounds of lard, none of which was shipped in 1943.

The board also bought for Britain 132,000,000 pounds of Canadian beef—the equivalent of about 320,000 head of cattle—and 1,150,000 pounds of lamb and mutton, or 23,740

Conference in Britain Seek to Eliminate Rivalry Between World Trade Unions

By JOHN DAUPHINEE

LONDON, Jan. 11.—(CP)—The Trades Union Congress, which has largely sidetracked rivalry between industrial and craft unions in Britain, is trying to spread that closer inter-union co-operation around the world.

ADMIRAL PERCY W. NELLES

Nelles Is Made Full Admiral On Retirement

OTTAWA, Jan. 11.—(CP)—Vice-Admiral Percy W. Nelles, 53, who started a naval career 36 years ago as a binnacle-polishing middy, retired yesterday as a full Admiral after a unique career in Canadian naval history.

Navy Minister Macdonald, announcing the Admiral's retirement as chief of the naval mission in Britain, said the promotion was in recognition of his service to the navy.

"Capt. Frank L. Houghton, 43, the Admiral's deputy overseas, has been appointed to head the mission."

ACTIVITIES REDUCED

Mr. Macdonald said the responsibilities of the mission in Britain "are of continuing importance although its activities have been reduced by the successful completion of the navy's share in invasion operations."

Admiral Nelles went into the navy with its first class of cadets as it was getting into full organization in 1908. He was only 15. Wednesday he became the first Canadian-trained officer to attain full admiral's rank.

Canada's first naval chief of staff—the late Sir Charles Kingsmill of Ottawa—attained admiral's rank on the Royal Navy's retired list. Sir Charles was succeeded as chief of staff in 1920 by Rear Admiral Walter Halsey who was succeeded in 1934 by Admiral Nelles. Admiral Nelles went to his London post about a year ago and he was succeeded as chief of staff by Vice-Admiral George Jones.

SON OF SOLDIER

Strangely enough Admiral Nelles is the son of a soldier—the late Brig-Gen. Charles M. Nelles who served in the Northwest Rebellion in 1885, the South African war and who commanded the Royal Canadian Dragoons in the First Great War. Admiral Nelles' grandfather was the late Rev. S. S. Nelles who became chancellor of Victoria university at the age of 27.

The admiral was educated at Lakefield preparatory school, Peterborough, Ont., and at Trinity College school, Port Hope, Ont.

He has held appointments as senior naval officer at Halifax and Esquimaux and was the first Canadian trained officer to command a cruiser in the Royal Navy. He was promoted rear-admiral, Aug. 4, 1938 and vice-admiral, Nov. 5, 1941.

In 1915 he married Helen Schuyler Allen, daughter of the then United States consul at Bermuda. They have two sons—Charles Macklin and William Allen, at home.

Capt. Houghton is a native of Cornwall, Eng., who was educated in Victoria and Halifax. His 16 years at sea have included service in battleships, cruisers, destroyers, submarines and minesweepers.

The 76-year-old co-ordinating hub of organized labor in the United Kingdom recently invited union representatives from many countries to a world conference here, opening Feb. 6.

"One major subject of the agency," said a TUC spokesman, "is planning for a world federation of all national trade union bodies. Before the war we had an international federation of trade unions but the charter permitted recognition of only one national labor organization in each country. In Canada, the Trades and Labor Congress was a member and it was impossible for the Canadian Congress of Labor to join."

TO MODIFY SET-UP
"We want to see how the set-up can be modified to create a generally world-wide organization representing all the organized workers of each country."

In Canada and the United States there have been hundreds of "jurisdictional disputes" between the CIO-type industrial unions and the AFL-type craft unions. The TUC, however, includes both types in the same organization and strikes over jurisdiction are virtually unknown.

(The CIO type of union embraces all the workers in each industry. For instance, an elevator operator in an automobile plant would be a member of a CIO automobile workers union. The AFL type of union covers only workers in specialized crafts.)

DISPUTES COMMITTEE

"The TUC has what is known as a disputes committee," the spokesman said. "When inter-union differences occur, both parties are called upon and argue the case. Then the committee reports to the general TUC council and, although it has no compulsory powers, the unions involved invariably accept the findings."

"This the TUC is able to represent the overwhelming majority of all British organized labor and can present a United front on important matters. We would like to see that co-operation extended to the international labor field."

The TUC itself entered the new year stronger in the hope, that most of its wartime gains will be maintained. At the end of 1939 membership of affiliated unions was 4,866,671. It climbed to 6,642,317 by the end of 1943, a four-year increase of more than 35 per cent, and there was what was termed "another substantial gain" last year.

Farmers in U.S. Fail to Utilize Grain For Stock

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—(AP)—An agriculture department report on stocks of feed grains and wheat on United States farms on Jan. 1 indicated that farmers are not utilizing these raw materials to the fullest extent possible in the production of livestock products.

The report said such grain stocks were larger than on that date in any other year except 1943. The 1943 stocks reflected bumper production in 1942 and large reserves accumulated in the pre-war years. In proportion to units of livestock and poultry now on farms, farm stocks of feed grains are larger, officials said, than in any other January since 1921.

No Nurse Shortage In Canadian Forces Says Chief Matron

OTTAWA, Jan. 11.—(CP)—Lt.-Col. Dorothy J. MacRae, matron-in-chief of the nursing service of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps, said yesterday there is no shortage of nurses in the Canadian Forces and that there were between 200 and 300 civilian nurses, eager to join the services, waiting to be called.

She was commenting on recent statements that the United States Nursing Corps is seriously short in personnel.

"The Canadian service has never recruited and has never had a shortage, so that Canada's servicemen are receiving the finest care," she said.

Phooey on Red Flannels

Sturdy stock these modern girls. No runs here. In fact, no stockings. Women should wear more clothes, said Dr. C. P. Yaglou of the Harvard School of Public Health. If they wore more clothes they would keep warm—save fuel—help the war. The Wartime Prices and Trade Board doesn't agree. "Leave the girls as they are," declared one official.

Hitler Youth on Rampage

ON THE WESTERN FRONT, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Gangs of Hitler Youth, tutored by the elders as thieves, spies and saboteurs, have been caught on both sides of the Belgian-German border, an American staff officer said yesterday.

Boys and girls ranging in age from 12 to 17 have been involved in thefts of American arms and ammunition, wire-cutting and fouling of motors.

One group of 12 and 14-year-old Nazis was found in possession of a well-stocked arsenal of American arms and ammunition, the officer said.

Five boys and a girl are being held while American authorities ponder what to do with them. The mother of another child has been detained.

Nazis Throw Acid In Face of Yank Medical Officer

WITH U.S. FORCES IN BELGIUM, Jan. 11.—(CP)—Two German soldiers dressed in American uniforms threw acid in the face of an unarmed American medical officer Tuesday, it was officially stated at United States 1st Army headquarters last night. When the Germans met the American officer their intent was to kill him.

Realizing that the officer had seen through their disguise the Germans pulled phials of acid from their pockets and threw the liquid in his face. They escaped.

U.K. Conservative Assails Russians

SALTBURN, Yorkshire, England, Jan. 11.—(CP)—In one of the bitterest attacks on Russian policy by a member of Commons since the war began, Cmdr. Robert T. Bower charged today that Soviet Russia "stabbed Poland in the back" and was cruel in her treatment of hundreds of thousands of Poles. Bower, a Conservative, told the Saltburn Rotary club that Premier Stalin was a "cold-blooded realist."

Tax Commission Leaves For Coast

McDougall of Montreal, has received 68 notices from organizations proposing to make submissions, and in most cases, the submissions have been accompanied by a summary of a brief containing views on taxation.

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Jan. 11.—(CP)—Nine bodies have been recovered from the wreckage of Pan American Airways' Congo Clipper, which crashed in Cocorite Bay Monday night, with a presumed loss of 23 lives. There were seven survivors.

Manitoba Health Program Outlined

WINNIPEG, Jan. 11.—(CP)—Fear of illness, with its accompanying financial worries, would be banished under a health services program outlined last night by Hon. Ivan Schultz, Manitoba minister of health and public welfare.

In an address over the Manitoba network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, Mr. Schultz said the program would make available to Manitobans medical treatment without any financial barrier between "the physician and the patient."

The broadcast was part of free time given by the CBC to Canadian political parties to outline platforms and policies.

The program calls for preventive services, adequate hospital facilities, and curative or personal health services with diagnostic facilities.

Ninety per cent of the medical work required could be supplied without the necessity of a patient leaving his own home community.

Compulsory Draft In Great Britain After War Urged

LONDON, Jan. 11.—(CP)—General Sir Walter Kirke, former commander-in-chief of home forces, says that past experience proves voluntary recruiting can never provide an adequate army for Britain, even in peacetime, and urges that the compulsory draft be maintained after the war.

Writing in the current issue of the National Review, Gen. Kirke says that in 1939 the regular army establishment was set at 224,000 but was nearly 24,000 under strength. Since overseas garrisons had to be maintained "practically the whole of this shortage was borne by the army at home."

"It is to be hoped that the future outlook will be revolutionized by acceptance of liability to service for the manhood of the nation," he writes.

Sentence Deferred Until Next Friday In Theft of Papers

MONTREAL, Jan. 11.—(CP)—Sentence was deferred here yesterday by Judge Amedee Monet and Rene Theberge on two charges laid against Samuel William Bennett, 33-year-old salesman caught Tuesday in the nose of a Vancouver-bound TCA plane at nearby Dorval airport.

Bennett pleaded guilty to a charge of theft of documents in the plane when he appeared before Judge Monet, but the latter deferred his sentence until Friday, at the request of counsel Auguste Angers, K.C., who said the case had "much more importance than certain people want to give it."

Judge Theberge, who had received Bennett's plea of guilty on a first charge of trespassing in a protected area Tuesday, also deferred his sentence until next Friday.

Opposes Project

QUEBEC, Jan. 11.—(CP)—Premier Duplessis said here last night after a cabinet meeting that he had not changed his opinion on the St. Lawrence seaway plan but declined to elaborate the statement. In past sessions of the Quebec legislative assembly, Mr. Duplessis had opposed the project.

Back to Front

LONDON, Jan. 11.—(CP)—Britain's first batch of men to return home on leave since the Normandy landings started back yesterday for the western front. They went back silently and a bit wistfully after the nine-day furlough, one soldier summing up the feelings of many by saying: "It was good, that leave—while it lasted."

Mother of Triplets Four Months Old Is Awaiting Allowance

FORT ERIE, Ont., Jan. 11.—(CP)

—The Fort Erie chamber of commerce sent a telegram yesterday to Labor Minister Mitchell bringing to his attention the fact that Mrs. Archie Macdonald, wife of an RC AF officer and mother of triplets born four months ago, has not yet received dependents allowance for her children. Her husband is stationed in Western Canada. She has been living in a small apartment and has not been able to get a home in this village as her husband is not listed as a war worker.

Two-Thirds British Mercantile Vessels Lost in Four Years

LONDON, Jan. 11.—(CP)—Britain

lost more than two-thirds of her merchant fleet in the first four years of the war, Capt. J. B. Pollard, deputy director and chief advisor of the admiralty salvage department, said yesterday. "We had 17½ million gross tons of ocean-going vessels under the British flag in 1939," he said. "By 1943 we had lost 11½ millions."

Report 24 Die In Train Wreck

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 11.—(AP)

—The Japanese-controlled Malayan radio reported yesterday that a train wreck in Padangpandjang on the west coast of Sumatra killed 224 persons and injured 245 on Christmas Day. The broadcast gave no details about the wreck but reported 28,000 florins had been collected among the people to aid the injured and relatives of those killed.

Less Absenteeism

OTTAWA, Jan. 11.—(CP)—Personnel officials in government offices said yesterday that there was less absenteeism and illness during very cold weather than during mild weather. Employees were reporting to work despite the fact that the mercury was hovering at the 23-below-zero mark.

CAUGHT PRISON SHIP

The British destroyer caught the German prison-ship Altmarmak attempting to break the British blockade and, in the ensuing chase, the merchant ship dashed into a Norwegian fjord to escape.

There, not wanting to smash to bits a ship carrying British prisoners, the then Capt. Vian raced Cossack through the treacherous waters to close and board the Altmarmak in a battle reminiscent of the days when Drake raided the Spanish galleons.

Cutlass-swinging sailors swarmed from the deck of Cossack. German sailors fell like nine-pins and the ship was ours, its prisoners unharmed.

That, in brief, was the story that in 1940 provided something to cheer about. And that, too, typifies the type of daring in which Admiral Vian specializes and which he will carry into any operation he undertakes.

Where his latest appointment will take him is not announced, but it is thought it will be to the Pacific against the Japanese.

Cites Importance Of Understanding World Happenings

SASKATOON, Jan. 11.—(CP)—Rupert D. Ramsay, Saskatchewan leader of the Progressive Conservative party, last night stressed the importance to the average citizen of studying and learning the meaning of such events as the Dumbarton Oaks conference and the establishment of United Nations rehabilitation administration, which had a direct effect in every home in Canada.

Speaking on a CBC provincial free-time political broadcast, Mr. Ramsay said "unless we as individuals are prepared to think through some of our problems and not let George do it, then we will lose this thing called Democracy and place our future in the hands of those who will gladly plan and direct it for us."

A Lot of Money

Last year 282,713 head of cattle, hogs,
sheep and horses passed through the Edmonton stockyards. Their gross value is placed at $12,758,574. Not a very interesting subject for comment? Or is it?

Twelve million dollars is a lot of money.
But that is only the first item in the calculation, the money value of the animals as they were delivered at the yards, the sum paid out to the producers. Add the large though conjectural amount that was paid out to employees of the packing plants for processing the meat animals, to truckmen for delivering the products, to clerks for selling the meat. Add also the probable amount which came into the city for products shipped to other points in Canada and to points outside Canada.

No one outside the business is in position to supply these missing items with any degree of exactness. But anyone can make a guess, and everyone knows that the sum total would run to a figure large enough to put the stock-handling industry
in the front rank of Edmonton business activities—perhaps away out in front.

Edmonton is and has been for many years one of Canada's biggest primary markets for livestock, and one of the most important packing centres in the Dominion.
Wartime has of course expanded the turn-over of business, but the pre-war
volume was large, and the post-war peacetime volume will be larger still.

By distributing money among the farming population, and among hundreds of city wage-earners, and by importing money for exported products, the concerns engaged in the marketing, processing and shipping of farm animals put an enormous sum into circulation in this community
every year. Their operations is one important reason why there is the Edmonton of today, and why the Edmonton of tomorrow will be a still more important business centre.

Movies for Children

There is a plan afoot in Canada to provide special motion picture programs for children. This service was recently organized in Great Britain and has been in operation for some time in Russia.

In England, these film programs for children are shown on Saturday mornings and consist of selected pictures many of which are especially produced for children. The latter are invited through the schools to attend as members of their neighborhood "film club". They may participate in planning their own entertainment programs and in selecting the films.

Data now being gathered through these film clubs will guide the future British production of pictures for juveniles.

More than 200 of these film clubs have now been established in England. Children between 7 and 14 are eligible for membership and the fee is the price of admission to any performance. The fund accumulated from fees is used to stimulate sports and other recreations during the week.

English educational authorities are convinced that this plan encourages the production of motion pictures especially suitable for children and they see in it a valuable aid in solving the problem of juvenile delinquency and also in stimulating a taste for good drama and literature.

There is another interesting and valuable feature in this plan. It is the fact that it includes a regular exchange of films between Britain and the Soviet Union. This exchange will doubtless include Canada
when the plan is put into operation here.

Russia has the largest stock in the world of children's entertainment films of artistic quality. She has more than 100 children's theatres.

The available Russian children's films and those produced in England will presumably be brought to Canada.

The value of the entire plan is surely obvious. And not the least valuable factor is the exchange of thought between children of Britain, Russia and Canada.

One can only wish the Canadian venture Godspeed.

"Back To"—Beyond Bataan

General Yamashita does not seem to take the Tokyo radio seriously. For a week
the broadcasters kept telling the world that half a dozen Allied convoys were moving along the waterways toward Luzon.
But General MacArthur's forces landed on the shores of Lingayen Gulf on Monday
without serious opposition, and three days later reported that resistance was still weak.

Yamashita apparently knew that the radiomen were guessing, and guessed that their guesses were wrong. The man who directed the furious resistance on Leyte would hardly have allowed the enemy to land so easily on Luzon if he had believed the radio stories about approaching convoys.

There are estimated to be 200,000 Japanese troops on Luzon. That they will fight as resolutely as those on Leyte

must be assumed, if and when they can recover from the handicap of surprise and dig in somewhere. Correspondents with the invading force suggest that there, as on the other island, it will have to be a battle of extermination.

The beach-heads gained are about one hundred miles north of Manila, and beyond Bataan. Tactically these new landings cut off the Japs in the whole of the Philippines—except the northern tip of Luzon—from the home-lands; as those in the southern islands were already cut off.
Five-sixths of the whole group area have been by-passed, the enemy garrisons left
to be mopped-up if they don't starve.

This new "hop" is the most direct chalenge thrown down to the Japanese main fleet. For on the road to Tokyo the Philippines is the last remaining island group
over-run by Tojo's forces three years ago.
Beyond lie only islands which were Japanese territory before the war began.

Happy Calgary

A story in the Calgary newspapers tells of a joke played on an East Calgary woman
this week.

Some prankster sent eleven taxicabs to her home in one evening. The story goes on:

"At short regular intervals, she said,
liveries would stop at the house enquiring
for 'the woman who called for a cab'.
There were eleven of them in one hour."

The point of this story, from the Edmonton standpoint, is not that the joke was funny—because it wasn't—but that there exists some place in Canada where anybody can secure the services of eleven taxicabs in this space of time.

In Edmonton, one does well if one can get one taxicab in eleven hours. In Calgary the situation seems to be reversed.
Happy Calgary!

It wouldn't help the Hitler cause any to send rocket bombs crashing into New York or Halifax. The result would be an intensified war effort from one coast to the other, and a demand that Germany get rockets in return. But because it would not be profitable is no assurance that the seaboard cities will not be attacked. It hasn't paid the enemy to shower these missiles on England, but they keep right on doing it.

Horror Programs for Children

Move to Banish the More Gory Thrillers From the Air

By HAROLD L. WEIR

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, to a chorus of applause from parents all over Canada, is seeking to ban horror programs
from private stations.

It has already refused to carry
any of these emotional atrocities on its network. Now it proposes that the canned varieties played in local studios should also go off the air.

It is not very often that this particular commentator rises in his place to commend any act of censorship. It is not very often that he sees occasion to rise for the purpose of complimenting the CBC.

But so far as the drooling, dra-cunine dreadfuls are concerned, he begs to concur in the CBC's stand with a sonorous "amen."

He looks with distrust at any attempt of the CBC to coerce private stations. In principle he is opposed to it. But when it comes to getting the horror programs off
the ether waves, he contends that the end justifies almost any means.

Not Immoral
It would be ridiculous to subscribe to the view of many of the more rabid critics that radio tales of murder and mystery are immoral. It is extremely doubtful, too, that they incite youth to deeds
of dishonesty and violence, as some maintain.

Indeed, they do not incite to anything. And that is one of my chief objections to them. They merely stupefy.

I can think of nothing more disastrously stultifying to the imagination than listening day after day to these hair-raising playlets which do not stimulate a boy in any respect but simply encourage him to take his adventure vicariously.

That, of course, is the crux of the complaint. Or it should be the crux of the complaint. Certainly it is

British-U.S. Dispute Dangerous

Discounting of Atlantic Charter Blamed for Differences

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

The public discussion between the United States and Britain has reached a dangerous stage. Hitherto there have been utterances of dissatisfaction on both sides. But now influential journals like the London Economist are proposing measures to enforce the British view-point. Inasmuch as these include the military conduct of the war, it is likely they will be badly received here and possibly
with the threat of counter-measures.

This—if it goes on—will mean the strength of each partner in the coalition will be modified by counter-policies of one against another, which will end
in dissolution of the coalition, before the war is over, or after its end. The situation, therefore, is of great gravity,
and must be discussed with utmost sobriety.

There is no purpose to be served by name-calling. We must ask ourselves how we got into this state of affairs. No one member of the coalition got us into it. We got ourselves into it, all together, at the moment we departed from the principles of the Atlantic Charter.
A coalition can only be held together by (1) a common enemy,
and (2) commonly accepted principles. Once the enemy ceases to be a common menace, in the absence of principles everything dissolves. Centrifugal forces begin to operate even before the enemy is defeated, as each begins to play for its post-war position, and thus discounts the peace in advance.

There have been three major political errors in this war, all arising out of the first one—the discounting of the Atlantic Charter.
The second was the interpretation
that has accumulated around "unconditional surrender"; and the third, the failure to produce any reasonable policy for a post-war Europe.

As far as I know the first head of a state publicly to repudiate the Atlantic Charter was Winston Churchill, when, in a speech before the House of Commons, he stated
its terms did not apply to our enemies. When, today, The London Economist attacks the partition of Germany—and attacks it, in my belief, with great wisdom—it should also see the moment the principles of the Atlantic Charter were lifted regarding Germany, a move to partition the Reich became inevitable.
Only a few days ago, Mr. Churchill himself supported the plan to give everything east of the Oder to the Poles, which made a counter-move from France inevitable. In this case, I, at least, am not speaking with hindsight. I have warned against this since the beginning of the war.

But what our own government and some of our publicists have been doing in regard to the Atlantic Charter, since the President's press conference, is most discouraging.

Elmer Davis, as head of the office
of war information, must be regarded as official. The other day on the air he took the line that the Atlantic Charter (like the ten commandments referred to by the President) represents only a lofty ideal to which some day after the war, we may hope to attain. "Nobody ever said it could be put into effect the day after tomorrow or even at the end of the war" are his words. The New York Herald Tribune took, editorially, exactly the same line. Sumner Welles, who has declared for the inviolability of the Atlantic Charter, and has insisted it is a sealed document, is, at the same time, the most influential exponent
in this country of all the measures violating the Atlantic Charter as they concern Germany.

Mr. Davis's remarks are senseless.
The Atlantic Charter is no lofty ideal. It represents what was universally accepted political principle, and to a large extent political practice, before Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy embarked on a counter-program. And we are not leaving the way open for the Atlantic Charter, but reforming Germany and the world along lines eternally incompatible with it. The processes of history are not reversible.

Deprecates Sniping at Britain

By Howard Vincent O'Brien in The Chicago Daily News

A surprising number of otherwise intelligent persons permit themselves the luxury of sniping at Britain. They are cynical about the lion's motives, and sneer at Churchill's reluctance to be the liquidator
of the Empire.

It seems to me that these analysts would do well to stow their guff. It is doubtless true that Britain's first concern is Britain. It is true, also, that her Prime Minister has no intention of allowing less sunshine
on British territory. But what of it?
Isn't the British government to be permitted the same degree of self-preservation we would like to enjoy ourselves? Isn't it a trifle snooty to insist on a higher moral quality in other nations than we ourselves possess?

That, however, is slightly beside the point. The point is that we are deep in an unfinished war; and we are far from being able to afford the amusement of bickering with those who are helping us to win it.
But for us, Britain would now be a under the German heel. That is a fact. It is also a fact that but for Britain, the world might now have a Rundstedt driving for Detroit. It is futile to debate our relative contribution to victory—whether we or the British Empire has provided
the most in men, guns and ships.
The proportion doesn't matter.
What matters is whether we can stick together long enough to end
the menace of Germany and Japan.
That matters enormously.

We may be suspicious of British intentions. We may resent the combination of arrogance and condescension sometimes to be found in British behavior. We may disapprove of British policy in Greece and the British attitude toward mine. For when a young fellow lives out his adventure (which should be his priceless heritage, as a human being) in the exploits of some slangy, anaemic or bathetic leuth of radio fiction, he is being cheated of half the joy of living.

Delinquency

It is charged against these programs that they contribute to juvenile delinquency. And that is probably true.

But it is not true in the way the accusers mean it.

It is not true that all these wild tales of ghosts and murders and violent death cause the youthful listener to emulate the characters in the recitation.

The truth is that when youngsters
fall under the spell of this unspeak-able bludge they become too apathetic to emulate anything. It becomes the sole focus of their imaginative energies. They lose all sense of adventure in their own right. And listlessly they await the agonized hour when they can tune in the hair-raising laugh,
the squeaking door of the spooky tune that introduces the outrageous characters with whom they come to identify themselves.

This nonsense definitely does not encourage juvenile delinquency because it fills young people with notions of derring-do. On the contrary, it encourages juvenile delinquency because it replaces the natural, vital, personal adventure,
which is part of every wholesome life, and in replacing it, promotes boredom.

And as I have pointed out many times, boredom is the chief enemy
of good behavior.

The thoroughly bad child is not the lively child, nor the mischievous child, nor the adventurous child, nor the imaginative child, but the child who is bored because his imagination is atrophied through the impact of vicarious adventure.

Crime

Please do not think that this disturbance constitutes any attempt to condemn the entire field of crime and mystery fiction.

It would ill become one who is an addict of detective stories and who finds Dorothy Sayers worshipful to so censure all forms of the whodunit.

For purposes of mental relaxation, I personally find a nice clean murder much more soporific than
the more romantic types of fiction.
I would rather go to sleep involved in a problem of fingerprints or ballistics than to heave and toss in the midnight hours, hag-ridden by the sorrows and frustrations of even the most fascinating blonde.

But one must regard these fictional pursuits from the standpoint of anesthesia rather than from the standpoint of excitement. One must regard them objectively, not sub-jectively.

And the trouble with horror radio programs is that young people do not regard them objectively. They get right inside them. They sigh and groan with the victim. They exult with the villain. They grow invisible with the Shadow and join in the last throaty laugh of the superman who sets everything straight by sheer power of genius.

Life just can't be lived that way.
And it is spiritually and emotionally enervating when all the child's imaginative power is thus drained off.

The CBC is to be commended for its present effort.

Canada's New Industrial Bank

By GRANT DEXTER

The Industrial Bank is already functioning. It was designed to fill a gap in the credit structure.
This gap has always existed, but for a number of reasons has become of much greater significance in recent years. The new bank does not duplicate or interfere with any existing credit agency. Its function is to be most readily explained by illustration:

1. A small industry, well-managed, needs additional capital either for an extension of plant or for conversion from war to peacetime production. The banks do not lend money for capital purposes.
Banks are commercial lenders. In the normal course of business, the banks would advise this industry to raise more capital. They would point out that the kind of loan

the industry required could not be paid back in a year or two. It would not be a current loan and therefore would fall outside the range of lending done by the banks.
But the industry cannot easily obtain additional capital. It might have been able to do so 25 or 30 years ago. But present taxation and succession duties, as will be explained, make this kind of investment unattractive. And yet, unless the industry can obtain more capital, its future is imperilled.

The Industrial Bank is intended to handle precisely this kind of business. It will do so either by direct loan or by a guarantee to a commercial bank or to any other lender.

2. A new industry is being planned. It has little capital to start with and no record of operations
as a base for credit. The idea is a good one, but it is difficult to obtain the necessary capital. The banks, of course, do not normally touch this kind of business. Their job, as already pointed out, is commercial lending to going concerns.

The Industrial Bank is equipped to do this kind of business. Under the act, the bank is empowered to lend or guarantee loans to a person "about to engage in an industrial enterprise."

The small and the young industries have always been at a disadvantage in the matter of credit.
This, of course, is natural. But in the last quarter century this gap in the credit system has become much more pronounced because of the rapid increase in taxation and the imposition of succession duties.
High taxation has made it harder for people who are attracted by this kind of investment to accumulate capital. This has been particularly true of the war years. Succession duties have made it hazardous for people to invest in small companies. Such investments can not easily be converted into cash.

Will Emerge From War With Three Million Tons

By B. T. RICHARDSON

OTTAWA—Canada will likely emerge from the war with 3,000,000 tons of merchant shipping in operation and a reasonable expectation that most of it can be employed for several years, possibly as a permanent merchant marine. As the only member of the British Commonwealth of Nations likely to have increased shipping resources after the war, Canada has become a member of the united maritime authority. This is a United Nations wartime shipping control organization created last August for control of shipping during the period between the end of the European war
and the defeat of Japan.

Canada's shipping policy is in its formative stage, though many fundamental facts of the world shipping situation as altered by the war are already apparent. Canada has built 360 cargo ships in the war. One British-operated line of Canadian-built merchant ships consists of the "Fort" class of freighters. The Canadian-operated line is the "Park" class, run by Park Steamships limited, a crown company.

Allowing for losses, deadweight
tonnage of 3,000,000 will remain in Canadian ownership after the war,
when the world tonnage will likely be around 100,000,000 of which half

"It's the same thing every night, Mother—he waits until we get started and then says there's not room for him to work!"

Canada's Shipping Position

By B. T. RICHARDSON

Before the war, the Canadian merchant marine consisted of about 1,100,000 tons, of which only 250,000 tons were deep sea ships. The chief Canadian cargo fleet consisted of 700,000 tons on the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence. In addition, 150,000 tons were employed in coastal trade. Like other nations, Canada subsidized shipping, in some years upwards of $3,000,000. The principle of subsidy was to secure a shipping service where national interests required it. But among the trading nations of the world, Canada was one of the least shipping countries.

World shipping tonnage in 1939 amounted to 68,509,432. The United Kingdom stood first with 17,

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW by Hal Dean

A GOOD goalie, a rugged defence pair—one a sixty-minute man—and two high-scoring lines are claimed for Regina Commandos, who clash with the Canadians at the Arena here on Saturday night. The game will commence at 8:30 o'clock.

At Greenway is rated amongst the best of Canada's junior net-minders and immediately in front are Paddy Ryan and Bob Arnot. In addition to enjoying quite a reputation for stout work on the defence, big Paddy is said to possess a very potent poke check and he is well up in the list of scoring leaders.

George Bach, Jack Wilkie and Les Cawthorpe are Commandos' first string forwards, but they appear to have experienced considerable difficulty keeping ahead of the next trio, Jim Fairbairn, Bill Pates and George Rayment, in the points department. Beach and Pates are the team's top scorers, Ryan ranking third.

Also included on the Commando roster are McCandless, Hammond, Gates, Staley, Klassen. Commandos won the Saskatchewan junior title last season and were eliminated from the Memorial playoffs after a marathon series with Trail Smokies.

THREE SINGLE-GOAL WINS

THREE decisions over the Maple Leafs and all by a single goal, says the EAC log-book today. Bill Drevier's juniors defeated the Leafs 5-4 in Dec. 18 and followed with a 4-3 Christmas afternoon victory. Last night's count of 6-5 narrowed the Canadians' margin at the top of the league standings to two points, but Canucks have a game in hand.

Both clubs showed great improvement over earlier performances. Maple Leafs led their best team of the season and they were powerfully close to finishing in front when they came with a rush in the closing moments. The work of the EAC squad was almost a complete reversal from the previous week.

"Sparky" Milner's goaling was a main factor in the EAC success. With seven minutes remaining both teams had fired 29 shots at the opposition net-minder. Milner then stopped five of six hot ones, while the EAC lads never got one direct drive on the Leaf net. Bobby Manson's was the only shot at brother Jack during the first six minutes of the third period, but it would have been a goal in any man's league.

Bud McPherson's return will be a big lift to the Leafs. The big left winger had only one workout before the game, but he came crashing through with three goals. As a matter of fact, Wednesday seems to have been a good night for Edmonton's hockey McPhersons, for Bud's young brother, Bill, also snapped home three as the Maples defeated their midget club-mates, the Maple Leafs 5-4 last night. "Red" Heron, now in the Army, came in from Camrose for the junior game. Mike Thomas' goal was a honey.

MOVING into the lead early in the first period and withstanding a closing drive in the final minutes, EAC pucksters finished in front of the Maple Leafs 6-5 in Wednesday night's Junior Hockey League fixture at the Arena.

In turning in their third straight win over the blue and white squad, the Clubmen gave their top display of the season and the 600 fans saw the best exhibition in the junior schedule to date.

Bud McPherson, back with his team mates for the first time this winter, was leading scorer for the night with three goals, other Leaf marksmen being Jim King and Mike Thomas. Bob Manson, who with goalie "Sparky" Milner was largely responsible for the EAC victory, counted twice and set up two others. John Duffield also netted a pair and Neil Wilson and "Curly" Blyth one each.

Catching the EAC defence in mid-ice, Bud McPherson scored on a breakaway in the first minute, going right in on Milner to make the shot.

Moe Furman almost made it a couple of minutes later, but EAC moved in. Jack Manson stopping two quick ones, Bobby Manson missed the net after taking Bill Pettigrew's pass, but combined with Duffield at 5:44 for the tying goal. Duffield's shot never left the ice.

Less than a minute later, Duffield gave his team a 2-1 advantage and they were never behind for the rest of the route. He was left uncovered in front of the net and the Leaf goalie had no chance to make a save. Bob Manson and Don Benkie, other members of the EAC first string, drew assists.

A penalty to Duffield for tripping McPherson gave Leaf the advantage and they went to work on Milner, who stopped three in a matter of seconds, two from King and the other from McPherson.

Neil Wilson raised the count to 3-1 at 11:31, Blyth and Moore setting up the goal. Jack Manson stopped Blyth's shot, but the puck got away a couple of feet and Wilson whipped it into the net.

The teams battled on even terms in the second period, each counting one. McPherson scored on a rebound from King at 2:45 to cut the margin in half.

Nick Hrynnyk was sent off for boarding Murray Smith, but Leafs couldn't get their power play organized. King eventually broke through alone, but Milner made a great save. Wilson and King were sent off for roughing.

Smith almost scored from Klesko and Milner made another fine block when Smith came in alone.

Blyth's backhand on a pass from Ray Moore at 16:08 gave the Clubmen a 4-2 lead. There was nice goaling at both ends near the close of the middle session, as the first strings turned on the heat.

Leafs led the edge during the final minutes and out-shot their opponents 11 to six. The EAC boys had only one shot during the first six minutes and that was Bobby Manson's goal at 3:03. Bobby drilled a hard one just as he crashed into a defenceman at the penalty line and it was a good goal all the way.

Mike Thomas raised the hopes of Leaf supporters at 7:36 when he went through alone and drew out Milner, neatly depositing the rubber into the net. It was the prettiest goal of the season.

McPherson scored on a screened shot at 12:23, but Manson and Benkie skated right through from the faceoff, Manson taking the shot for another EAC marker exactly seven seconds later.

King counted for Leafs in the last minute.

Currie Army Downs Navy 8-3 To Regain Service Loop Lead

CANADIAN SPORTSHOTS

By SYD THOMAS.

TORONTO, Jan. 11.—(CP)—Ski enthusiasts down Quebec way are looking to the future and laying plans for broadening interest in the sport after the war. Prime mover in the long-range planning is Fred Ughart, energetic chairman of the Laurentian zone.

In an interview in the Canadian Sport Monthly, Ughart outlined his plan for holding a national championship every year, with Banff probably the ideal location from all points of view, including good snow conditions late into the spring. Another plank of his platform calls for some large industrial concern to act as commercial sponsor for the championships. Sizeable cash prizes in sports like golf draw the top-ranking international stars, and thus in turn draw large gate to keep the sport rolling.

Ughart's idea is to apply the sponsor's money to expenses for zone representatives, who would help raise money in their individual zones to finance travelling expenses and build up the bank rolls.

With a few more enthusiastic fans like Ughart, skiing might be built into a prominent national attraction when peace returns.

CAREFUL NOW!

In Chicago, wrestlers now are being glorified by the somewhat effeminate title "matricians."

Comments Doug (Windsor Star) Vaughan, that's nothing to what some toe twisters have been called.

THIS AND THAT

After the war, some of those military drill halls and whatnots around the country might be dismantled and shipped to various smaller centres where they would make good sports halls, suggests Al (Vancouver News-Herald) Robertson says he hates to think what will happen if the bookies transfer their full affections to baseball, basketball and football games as they flee before the US government's fire. Says he: "The sight of large chunks of that folding stuff could easily make some players a little too tired to give their best in a game."

EAC Pee-Wees To Play Friday

Three more games in the Edmonton Athletic Club Pee Wee Hockey League will be played at the Arena Friday night with the first tilt billed to start at 7 o'clock.

In the first game, Kraft will meet Fairway Autos while Sunland Biscuits take on Allards in the second and Smithbluffs oppose Arrows in the third. Second contest starts at 8:15 and the last at 9:15.

Liberia's government is patterned after that of the United States.

CALGARY, Jan. 11.—(CP)—

Held fairly even during the first two periods, Currie Army's powerful hockey machine put on the pressure during the third here Wednesday night to take an 8-3 decision over HMCS Tecumseh in an Alberta Services Senior Hockey League game.

The victory put the soldiers in first place, two points ahead of the RCMP Mustangs whom they oppose next Saturday.

Max Bentley, Tony Desmarais, Dunc Grant with two each and Joe Benoit and Tommy Anderson scored for Army while Eddie Slowinski, Bill Dickie and Doug Cairns tallied for the Tars. Besides Max Bentley, accounting for two goals, Max Bentley assisted for two. Harry Black and Doug Lane also were in on two assists each.

Army assumed the lead and had a 2-1 advantage at the end of the first period. They were still out in front 3-2 at the end of the second and added five more goals to their opponents' one during the third period.

Jockey Didn't Mean To Be Unpatriotic

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 11.—(AP)—Put those brickbats down, fellows. Jockey Bobby Permaine didn't mean to sound unpatriotic when he asked in talking about the racing shutdown: "What good could I do in a war plant?"

Permaine went on to explain that he had no mechanical skill, and that by the time a factory could train him, the emergency which led to the turf suspension would be over.

But his remarks drew a verbal barrage. A Chicago plant telegraphed an offer to teach him to work. A postcard brought Bobby Permaine a threat of a punch in the mouth. Permaine's friends didn't fail to tell him that his statement was out of tune with the times.

"I just didn't mean those words like they sounded," he said Wednesday. "You know, I had broken

Canada to Follow Britain On Wartime Racing Subject

By L. J. ROGERS
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

MONTREAL, Jan. 11.—In most fields of sport, Canada follows the U.S. pattern rather than that of Great Britain. But when it comes to the subject of wartime horse racing, Canada will string along with Great Britain and keep the sport going, though on a reduced scale.

Canadian racing got its start over a century ago when English cavalry regiments and English hunting gentry brought their favorite sport to what was then a British colony. Since then, the growth of racing in the Dominion has been slow but steady—without the boom periods that have marked U.S. turf history.

In the darkest days of the First World War, Canadian racing received its equivalent of the Byrnes ban in 1917, and that season Canada's premier track, the historic Woodbine oval at Toronto, staged only one day of racing.

That program was put on so the famous King's Plate should preserve its record of continuity. This classic of the Canadian turf—which will witness its 86th renewal this spring—is the oldest continuously run stake event on the North American continent.

Most Canadian track operators expect to carry through the 1945 season in much the same wartime restricted style in which they've operated during the five past war-time seasons. These restrictions have shut down all tracks that cannot be reached by street railway lines, have banned all race track special trains, and have upped the tax slice off the Canadian betting dollar to 15 per cent. Despite these restrictions, more money passed through the parimutuels at Canada's 25 race tracks during 1944 than in any year since 1930. A total of $37,068,199 was bet—a 12 per cent jump from 1943.

Throughout Canada, track operators and horsemen appear confident that racing will go ahead pretty much as usual during 1945, with only one big problem arising from the Byrnes ban. That's the problem of how to get sufficient horses to fill seven races a day for the 14 days of operations which each Canadian track is permitted each year. In the past, American bred and owned horses made up the bulk of the entries on most Canadian race cards. However, Canadian track operators have been giving consistent encouragement to Dominion breeders and owners in recent years and the supply of native bred horses should be sufficient to offset the Washington order that forbids U.S. owners to ship to tracks within 300 miles of the U.S. boundary. (Every Canadian track lies within this forbidden region.)

THREE ALTERNATIVES

Turf observers see three alternatives for the coming Canadian season: (1) If the Byrnes ban on shipping still is in effect through May and June when the Canadian season starts, Dominion tracks can operate with the horses now in Canada—even though the number of races per day may have to be cut from seven to four or five, or the race meets may be forced to operate only three days a week; (2) The Byrnes ban may be modified to allow U.S. owners to sell horses over the border; (3) The shipping ban may be lifted entirely if war conditions are improved by spring.

Three of the four racing regions of Canada will likely operate in some fashion no matter what happens, since they each have a fair supply of homebred horses. These regions comprise Ontario, the prairie provinces and British Columbia. The only region where a horse shortage may force a shutdown is in Quebec province—where racing has been at a fairly low ebb ever since the depression era.

By general turf ratings, Ontario tracks would in the main be classed at Grade B circuits in ordinary years, with purses averaging $1,000 at Woodbine, down to $700 at Stamford and Fort Erie. Western tracks may vary from Grade C to Grade D—with purses running from an average of $500 at Winnipeg's Polo park to $400 at the Regina and Saskatoon half milers. Quebec circuit tracks are strictly Grade D, with a $600 average, but with a better class of horses than either British Columbia or the prairies.

98 DAYS IN ONTARIO

Observers estimate that there are 700 horses now in Ontario that are either Canadian bred or Canadian owned, with another 400 in western Canada and 200 more in British Columbia. Last year, Ontario's seven racing associations staged 98 days of racing on five tracks, running almost continuously from mid-May to late October. Four British Columbia tracks operated 57 days, from July 1 to mid-September. In Quebec three tracks operate 42 days in the spring and fall, with a summer shutdown.

Turf events in Canada are the King's Plate at Toronto's Woodbine and the Canadian Derby at Winnipeg. Each event is open to Canadian bred three-year-olds, at a distance of one and 3/4 miles. The 1945 King's Plate will be a $10,000 added affair, worth about $14,000 by post time while the Polo Park event carries a $7,500 added tag.

Today's Sport Parade

By Jack Cuddy

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—(BUP)—Major league baseball clubs will begin mailing out 1945 contracts this week. Players receiving these documents will be confronted with the biggest problem of their careers: should they sign for play, or should they remain in war plants and on farms?

This is a delicate question, in view of the sober war situation and its attendant ramifications on the home front. However, spring training will start in little more than two months—if it starts—and the players must make up their minds soon.

Trying to make up their minds, under current conditions, the athletes must find themselves in a welter of uncertainty. Their employers, the club owners, and the major league officials apparently intend to continue the game, since no government red light has been raised against it. But war mobilization director Byrnes and President Roosevelt are urging that every available man either work or fight, although no congressional act has made this mandatory as yet.

WILL BE RE-EXAMINED

The majority of major leaguers are 4-F's or service discharges who have been tabbed physically unfit by examining physicians. At Byrnes's request, most of them will be re-examined. Doubtless, most of these men feel that they have as much right to return to their baseball jobs, as any other citizen has a right to return to his, after being declared unfit for military service.

Baseball is their business—their means of livelihood. Most of them plugged away in the minors for several years before reaching the big time. Because of the proficiency they have attained in the profession, they naturally make more money—and can maintain their families at a better standard of living—than if they depended upon wages in war plants or on farms. In this respect, they are no different from singers, musicians, actors, etc.

But from another angle, there is a big difference. The 4-F's and discharges of the diamond make their living in a calling where widespread publicity is given their physical prowess. As the war tension tightens, it becomes more and more difficult for uninformed skeptics to reconcile their prowess with their apparent inability to get into the fight. It is not only to join the less athletic ribbon clerks, office workers, barbers, etc., who are at the front.

BOROWY NOT TO PLAY

THUS far, neither men nor civilians have "gone to work" on the ball players—have subjected them to much criticism. But it must be remembered that the European war fronts were far less fluid during the 1944 baseball season than they have become since. Every intelligent player appreciates this fact; also the accompanying manpower situation at home.

And he wonders, probably, if the alleged morale value of the game will continue to prevent criticism by public and friends should he play ball this season, instead of doing war work. Hank Borowy, Yankee pitcher, disclosed yesterday that he intends remaining in the war plant in Bloomfield, N.J., where he has been employed during the off season—"unless Washington gives a definite okay for baseball." He was originally 3-A in the draft because of family responsibilities. His draft board has given no indication of preventing his return to baseball. We wonder how many other Hank Borows the contracts will find when the postman delivers them.

necessary among good bridge players. These four ladies have not even played together since last year.

There is nothing timid about Mrs. Follie's game, as demonstrated in this hand. She received the most difficult opening that could be made on the hand, as any other opening would have eliminated one guess. She won the first trick with the ace of spades and immediately cashed the ace of diamonds. A small diamond was played from dummy and won by South with the king. South returned a spade which was trumped. Mrs. Follie cashed three rounds of hearts and ruffed the fourth heart. She then decided that as long as South had held the king and jack of diamonds and the jack of hearts, North ought to have the queen of clubs, and she took the club finesse on that theory, making her contract.

Spurns $25 Fine

Landlady Goes to Jail To "Foil" Her Tenants

I Saw Today

WILLIAM CARNILL
recalling old days in the 10th Battalion;
AND
Robert Steele discussing Queen's Canadian Fund matters with a friend on Jasper; C. A. Brine walking north on 109 street; Harold Simpson entering the Macdonald hotel; Harold Jackson surveying the scenery at Macdonald Drive and 101 street; Jack Cox giving his views on recent snowfalls on 120 street; Frank McCleavy at Jasper and 101 street.

Heating troubles, "unfair" tenants and an "unfair" wartime prices and control board inspector prompted Mrs. Jean Pitblado of Edmonton to refuse a chance to pay a fine of $25 after being found guilty of breach of leasehold regulations by Magistrate Harold L. Howe, K.C. Wednesday afternoon, and accept a jail term of 30 days.

Trouble, it appeared, started when tenants complained of the lack of heat in her apartment house. When an officer from the Wartime Prices and Trades Board appeared to investigate, the accused said she told him to get out or get "kicked in the pants."

Declaring that she was going to get rid of all the tenants, the accused was warned she would have to consider the blanket regulations and give some thought to the police who was expected to give to her tenants. Temperatures in a house should be higher than 55 degrees, said the magistrate, adding that it was more comfortable at 70 or 72. The accused replied that she was not going to have her tenants "living off me, and I'll go to jail first."

She chose the term at Fort Saskatchewan.

Importance of Women's Work Is Emphasized

The importance of the volunteer effort of women in the post-war world was indicated by Mrs. H. C. Newland, chairman of the Citizens' Volunteer Bureau, when she submitted her report at the board meeting of the War Services Council Tuesday night.

Volunteer workers, explained Mrs. Newland, have been mending the chest X-ray campaign and will continue to do so throughout its duration.

"In fact, almost the entire organization was carried out by these volunteer workers. They will also take an important role in plans of the provincial government for a post-war buying survey, particulars of which will be announced shortly," she said.

PLACE ON BOARD
Maj. David Rae, chairman of War Auxiliary Services, Salvation Army, took his place for the first time on the board as a director at large. He commented briefly on the work done by the Salvation Army.

Mrs. Rae told Taylor informed the board that 14 groups had already been registered under the military hospital group visiting set up and registrars are already on duty during hospital visiting hours.

Board members decided that the War Services Council should endorse any application made by the military hospital to the city for an improved bus service to the hospital. It was pointed out that at the present time no buses service the hospital on Sunday.

Harold L. Weir, chairman of War Services Council, will leave Jan. 21 by plane to attend the national gathering of War Services at Montebello, Quebec.

Manitoba Here For Mines Meet
F. V. Seibert, Winnipeg, president of the Manitoba Chamber of Mines, and industrial commissioner for the Canadian National Railways, arrived in Edmonton Thursday morning to attend the annual meeting of the Alberta and North West Chamber of Mines and Natural Resources.

Commenting on mineral development in Manitoba Mr. Seibert said that a major strike had been made at Snow Lake near mile 81, Hudson Bay Railway. Development work has been carried out on this find, he added, and there is no doubt that a large gold mine exists which will be developed in the post war period.

Police Arrest Driver of Car in Fatal Crash

Discharged by Royal Alexandra hospital authorities late Wednesday afternoon, Alex Starliki, 10157 100A street, was placed under arrest by city police, escorted to police headquarters, and booked on a charge of manslaughter.

The charge arose out of the death Tuesday night of Walter Bellman, resident of 94 street and 111 avenue, from injuries received early that morning in an automobile accident which injured four others, including Starliki.

The arrest was made by Det. William McDonald and Constable E. F. Forslund, after it was announced that the accused's condition was such that he could be discharged.

THREE IN HOSPITAL
Still in hospital as a result of the accident, are Mrs. Starliki, Garlie Guns and Douglas Gordon, all of Edmonton.

Inquiry into the death was scheduled to start Thursday morning when a jury will meet and identify the body at the Howard and McBride funeral home. The case will then be adjourned until probably some time next week, Det. McDonald stated, adding that the inquest date would depend on the condition of those still in hospital.

Police investigations, in the meantime, are continuing.

300 Attend Smoker Navy Fathers' Club

More than 300 attended the annual Navy Fathers' Club smoker at HMCS Nonsuch, the Edmonton Naval establishment, Wednesday night.

The meeting, which convened under the chairmanship of R. E. Browne, chairman of the club, drew an attendance of about 130 Edmonton fathers of naval personnel, the ship's complement of HMCS Nonsuch and 40 on leave from service in the Navy overseas.

The gathering took place in the naval barracks through the kindness of Lt.-Cmdr. J. A. Dawson, captain of HMCS Nonsuch.

Because of the unavoidable absence of the captain, Lt. J. Webster, executive officer, headed the crew of the Nonsuch.

Special guests included Mayor John W. Fry, His Honor Judge J. L. Crawford, Chief Constable Reginald Jennings and W. Harris, secretary of the Edmonton Hockey Association.

There were several brief speeches following the toast to His Majesty The King.

One candidate will be elected from the army, another from the air force, and the third from the navy.

Twelve of the candidates nominated are from Edmonton, 19 being from northern Alberta. Of the 32 named to contest the election, three are navy members, 22 are in the army, while seven are serving with the RCAF.

Among Edmonton and north Alberta candidates are the men listed below. Biographical sketches are appended:

UFA Executive Meets in City

Members of the executive of the UFA opened sessions at the Macdonald hotel to consider the program of its annual convention next week and to deal with routine pre-convention matters.

J. G. Taggart, chairman of the Canadian Agricultural Prices Control Board, will be the principal speaker at the Tuesday evening session of the UFA convention, with J. E. Brownlee, K.C., the guest speaker on Wednesday evening.

Tuesday, the opening day of the convention, will be taken up with the presentation of the address by President Robert Gardiner and its consideration by delegates. It is understood that Mr. Gardiner will deal with post-war problems, and particularly with inflation issues which may arise in that period.

Surgeon, Lt. Henry Swan, medical officer at HMCS Nonsuch, the Edmonton naval establishment, since last October has left for Eastern Canada on leave.

Engineering Is Theme of Talk At University

More than 150 persons attended the first meeting in the new year, of the Philosophical Society of the University of Alberta when Professor R. M. Hardy, of the department of civil engineering, spoke on the topic "Engineering and Society." The speaker was introduced by Dr. Walter H. Johns, president of the society.

"There are two issues," stated the speaker, "which I wish to present. The broadening of the engineering curriculum, and public recognition of the engineer." In dealing with the first issue Professor Hardy first defined the essentials which must be present to make up any profession. He then outlined the types of courses in the engineering curriculum as at present constituted. He dealt with some length on the proposals advanced by Dr. Tracy of the English department regarding arts courses, at a previous meeting of the Philosophical Society. He took exception to Dr. Tracy's proposal for a three-year arts course.

MAJOR COURSE
Professor Hardy suggested one major course along humanistic lines be included in each of the four years of engineering. The courses Professor Hardy would have included in the engineer's curriculum are English, History of Early Civilizations, Philosophy, and Economics and Political Economy. These courses were not to be the regular arts courses offered to arts students. "The cultural courses we want are not presently listed in the calendar, for they would of necessity be essentially survey courses," Professor Hardy stated.

Discussing engineers in society, Professor Hardy pointed out that the engineer, in trying to apply scientific principles in planning for society, has often been accused of dictatorial tendencies, which are undesired. Professor Hardy showed that the engineer is generally far too reticent. He should make himself heard on public problems involving technical matters in his field.

Dr. Walter Johns, president, thanked the speaker at the conclusion of his address. A lively discussion followed before the meeting was brought to a close.

297 Donate Blood At Wetaskiwin

Members of the Red Cross mobile blood donors' clinic spent a busy week end at the Wetaskiwin training centre where 297 men made blood donations Saturday and Sunday morning. Sunday from 9 to 12 a.m. a total of 155 donations were completed.

Workers of the clinic were assisted by 11 registered nurses under the direction of Mrs. Gladys Abousaffy of Wetaskiwin and 30 volunteer workers. This is the fourth time these volunteers have assisted with the work.

Miss Eileen Hugill of the clinic reported that three of the donors at the camp made their sixth donation and at least half a dozen made their third.

Next week instead of going to Fort Saskatchewan the clinic will be at North West Air Command during the morning from Tuesday to Friday.

A new co-operative society has been established at Wainwright, according to an announcement Thursday by the Provincial government co-op branch. To be known as the Wainwright and District Co-operative Association, the new organization has H. V. Taylor, Wainwright, as provisional secretary.

It's All Free at Red Cross Centre

Learn to Dance—And How!

If you are a plain GI or NCO in any of the Allied armies stationed in Edmonton and handicapped socially by a lack of elegant grace on the ballroom floor, you can obtain the best dancing instruction that money can buy only you don't have to buy it.

Amazing as it reads the foregoing is gospel truth. If you have any doubts drop in at the American Red Cross recreational centre at 100 street and 103 avenue. But don't go if you are a commissioned officer because the deal's only good for GI's and NCO's.

Instruction of the very best will be given by Miss Jane Reed, a bewitching blonde American Red Cross recreation worker from Vineland, New Jersey.

LONG EXPERIENCE
For more than two years Miss Reed instructed at studios operated by the world-renowned Arthur Murray in Baltimore, Philadelphia and Miami Beach.

Before joining the American Red Cross she operated her own dance studio in Vineland, New Jersey.

Now Miss Reed, assisted by a talented corps of Edmonton young women volunteers, is teaching hundreds of Allied servicemen how to dance in classes conducted twice weekly at the Red Cross recreation centre here.

And the GI's and NCO's receive instruction for which they would be charged up to $6 an hour if taken in an Arthur Murray studio in the United States.

It isn't just plain, old-fashioned dancing that is taught in this wholly "on the house studio."

Everything in the way of modern North American ballroom dancing is taught by Miss Reed and her assistants. There are classes for

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

School for Parents Is Greatest Need

Parents Should Obtain Enlightenment on How to Deal With Their Children; Often Parents Ruin Lives of Offspring

There is much talk about establishing a School for Parents. Let us hope and pray that it will materialize and that the time is not far distant when the professor will beat the stork to every home in which a baby is due to arrive. For if there is one thing about which the average man and woman are grossly ignorant and on which they need enlightenment, it is about how to deal with children.

Curiously enough, although everybody knows that parenthood is the most important job any human being ever undertakes, heretofore nobody has thought it worth while to prepare themselves for it, as they would be to a blacksmith, or a truck driver, to say nothing of qualifying for a career as a doctor or a stenographer.

They seem to think that how to be a wise and successful father and mother will come by nature, and that they will be miraculously inspired about how to handle an immortal soul when the need arises. Yet while there is a proverb about lucky infants having been born with a silver spoon in their mouths, there is no record of anyone having arrived with a Baby Book in his hands.

ABSOLUTE SELVES

The great majority of fathers and mothers meet all the problems of being parents with bland fatalism. They say: "You never can tell how a child will turn out," and they absolve themselves from all responsibility in the matter. Except, of course, when Johnny gets to be a Major General, or Sally develops into a cinema star. Then they beat on their breasts, and say: "I did it!" You never hear a father say: "My son is a tramp because I drove him away from home by my harshness and tyranny." Or a mother say: "My daughter went wrong because I never watched over her and taught her to walk the right road."

Yet if there is one thing in the world that is truer than another, it is that children are clay in their parents' hands, and, ninety-nine times out of a hundred, they are what their fathers and mothers make them—vessels of honor and worth, or shards to be thrown on the scrap pile.

For in the great crises of life we don't stop to reason. We act the way we have been brought up to act. The principles, good or bad, that our parents inculcated in us are part of us that we can no more shed than we can our skins.

SIN THROUGH IGNORANCE

Now when men and women are bad parents, they sin often through ignorance rather than intent. Sometimes they drive their children away from them by bringing them up in the hard school in which they were reared, and often just because they have the memory of such a bitter childhood, they are over-indulgent and put no restraint whatever upon their youngsters. Many a mother ruins her children by spoiling them with too much love, and many another mother blights her children by starving them for affection.

And thousands upon thousands of parents never really get acquainted with their children, or find out how to appeal to them, or spend as much time and trouble in trying to teach them the things they are going to need to know in life as they do in training a dog to do tricks.

And in combating this ignorance the School for Parents could do a great work. If a course in it could be made compulsory for everyone with children, we could solve the juvenile delinquency problem.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.
Best prevention of bowing of the legs is good nutrition—especially a regular daily ration of Vitamin D throughout infancy and the early years of childhood—too often the baby's vitamin D ration is stopped when the baby is a year old. Besides the daily ration of vitamin D, life in the open air and plenty of exposure of the young child is important to encourage the growth of strong straight bones. Finally plenty of exercise, active play, particularly running, riding, tricycle, pushmobile, horseback and the like, aids the development of straight legs.

For youths or young adults the usual operation is subcutaneous osteotomy (cutting or sawing the bone across through a puncture or small incision in the skin), at the apex of the curve of the shin bone (tibia), then application of rigid plaster of Paris splints or cast from toes to groin, with the leg straightened, of course. The patient is kept off the feet for six weeks. Then the splints or casts are removed and the patient gradually resumes walking and general activity just as though there had been a fracture of the leg.

I cannot inform any one what such treatment will cost. That is a matter to discuss with the surgeon. Likewise it is for the surgeon to decide which hospital the patient is to enter for the operation. Finally of course no one can guarantee anything and no reputable physician or surgeon or specialist ever guarantees anything. If you undergo surgical treatment for bowleg you do so at your own peril—precisely as you do for any other medical or surgical treatment.

If I had bowlegs and youth and the price I believe I'd have my legs straightened as nearly as such surgery can straighten them, just for my own peace of mind.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRID

On a baby's hairless head his ears are so prominent a portion that if they are large or stand away from it, they seem ludicrously noticeable.

Every mother longs for her baby to have a well-shaped head, and ears nicely adjusted to it. She will do almost anything—and unfortunately does—to alter them if they do not live up to her idea of what are ideally-shaped ears.

Obviously, it is important to prevent a child from disturbing the natural shape of the ears by pulling at them: If the child puts his hand to his ears and yanks at them as he nurses, or sucks a thumb and pulls his ears as he is going to sleep, it is well to discourage that habit, for the ears may become long and outstanding from such constant manipulation.

If the hands can be kept covered with the long sleeve of the night gown the small baby may leave his ear alone. If this is not successful it may be necessary to cover the head with a neatly-fitted hood made of thin, porous material, until the baby forgets the habit. This hood can be made over any standard hood pattern, and if constructed of a washable, cotton net, it will be so thin as not to be burdensome to the sleeping child.

The baby's ears, the shape of the head or the nose or the mouth are the result of his heredity and if he happens to inherit large ears which stand out prominently from the head, one cannot do much to alter them.

My leaflet "Keeping Baby's Ears Attractive," discusses, also, the subject of baby's head misshaper because of sleeping habits. It may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with this request to Myrtle Meyer Eldrid, in care of this newspaper.

Vermont apple pie is popular dessert with winter meals. By GAYNOR MADDOX

Apple pie when the snow falls—that's a good old tradition. Here's a recipe to carry on with.

APPLE PIE
Crust: Two and one-half cups flour, sifted; 1 teaspoon baking powder; 1/2 teaspoon salt; 3/4 cup shortening; 5 to 8 tablespoons ice water.
Sift the flour, baking powder and salt together. Blend in the shortening with two knives or a pastry blender until pieces of fat are about the size of peas. Add the ice water, a little at a time. Use only enough water to make the dough stick together. Mix gently into the flour, and shortening with a fork. Pat into a ball and chill. Roll out two-thirds of pastry and line a nine-inch crinkle edge heat-resistant glass pie plate with it; allow edge to extend about 1/4 inch above top of fluting. Trim if necessary. Save the remaining pastry for the top crust.

Filling: Four cups peeled, sliced apples; 1/2 cup maple syrup; 1/4 cup sugar; 1/4 teaspoon salt; 3 tablespoons flour; 1 tablespoon butter. Combine all ingredients except butter and let stand while preparing the pastry. Fill the unbaked pie shell with the fruit mixture. Dot with butter. Slightly moisten edge of bottom crust with cold water. Roll out top crust, cut slits to let out the steam and place it over the filling, folding top crust over, then under, the edge of the bottom crust. Press the two crusts into the fluting to make the "crinkle edge". Press lightly so as not to tear the pastry. Bake in a moderately hot oven, 375 degrees F., about 60 minutes until the crust is a light brown. Cool.

Judge Helen Gregory MacGill Retired From Juvenile Court

VANCOUVER, Jan. 11.—(CP)—Judge Helen Gregory MacGill, pioneer woman jurist and specialist in the field of women's and children's rights, has retired as judge of the juvenile court here. Attorney General R. L. Maitland announced in Victoria.

Born in Hamilton, Ont., Judge MacGill graduated from Trinity College, University of Toronto, in 1888, and was sent to Japan by a syndicate of Canadian newspapers and a United States magazine to write of social conditions in the Orient.

She married Dr. F. C. Flesher of Orangeville, Ont., and went with him to California where she and her mother, Emma O'Reilly Gregory, edited two small newspapers. Moving to San Francisco, near Minneapolis, Minn., Judge MacGill became correspondent for a string of newspapers and feature writer for various American publications.

Following Dr. Flesher's death, she married J. H. MacGill, Vancouver barrister.

DUAL OFFICE

Only woman in British Columbia to hold the dual office of juvenile court judge and justice of the peace, to both of which positions she was named in 1917, Judge MacGill demonstrated her sense of duty when in 1938 she held juvenile court in hospital here after her leg had been broken in an automobile accident.

"There's no reason why these youngsters should have to wait to have their cases heard," she commented at the time.

She gave valuable aid in obtaining the franchise for women and played an important part in this province in legislation for mothers' allowances and old age pensions, child labor and welfare laws, women's minimum wage laws and amendments to the Marriage Act.

The University of B.C. conferred an honorary doctor of laws degree on her in 1938, the first such degree the university had ever conferred on a woman.

In 1918, Judge MacGill was appointed to the B.C. Minimum Wage Board, first of its kind in Canada. She drew up some of the board's first regulations. From 1920 to 1921, she was chairman of the Vancouver Mothers' Pension Board.

U.S. NEWSPAPERS

During her years in the United States she worked at one time for the San Francisco Chronicle, the San Francisco Examiner, and the Minneapolis Journal.

She was elected to the International Judges' Association during the 1939 convention in Bruges, Belgium.

Judge MacGill had two sons by her first marriage, the late Dr. F. G. Flesher of Portland, Ore., and Eric Flesher of Phillips Arm, B.C. Two daughters by her second marriage are Elsie Gregory MacGill, aeronautical engineer and wife of E. J. Solby, controller of Victory Air Plant, Toronto; and Dr. Helen MacGill Hughes, Chicago socialologist and writer for Time and Life magazines.

Mr. Mayrand, who has been with the Canadian mission to Moscow for four months following earlier tours of duty at Istanbul, Turkey, and Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, arrived here shortly before noon, and was entertained to lunch at the RCAF Edmonton station officers' mess by Air Vice-Marshal T. A. Lawrence, air officer commanding, North West Air Command, and other NWAC officers.

Bank clearings through the Edmonton Clearing House during the week ending Jan. 11 amounted to $9,801,286.78 this year as compared with $9,074,631.22 for the same period in 1944.

Minerals Parley Made Progress

While much "spade-work" was accomplished at a mineral rights conference in Calgary Tuesday between representatives of the government and large land-holders, further conferences will be necessary before definite action can be taken, according to Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of lands and mines.

Purpose of the meeting was to discuss a proposal by which applicants for oil exploration permits would deal directly with the government, rather than with individual owners of mineral rights to the property concerned. It was felt this scheme would encourage oil development on a larger scale than the present plan permits.

The conference was attended by Mr. Tanner, representatives of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company and the Hudson's Bay Company, and officials of the Calgary and Edmonton land company.

Members of "C" Company South Side Battalion, VVH, will parade at the city police station at 10:30 hours on Friday for training.

Complete Plans Alberta Farm, Home Survey

With Alberta's province-wide survey into post-war buying plans of householders, farmers and industrialists scheduled to begin Monday, officials Wednesday were completing survey arrangements in each of the 25 districts where investigations will be conducted.

Last-minute preparations include distribution of survey supplies and questionnaires, organization of canvassing teams, arrangements for return of completed documents and completion of plans to tabulate results.

It is hoped the survey will be completed by the end of January, in order that tabulation of results may be started early next month. The tabulation will be finished in February, and results will form the basis of a second survey among industrialists.

INDUSTRY SURVEY

The second survey will reveal post-war plans of larger provincial industries and businesses regarding employment and production of various commodities. In compiling data for this report, industrial leaders will take into account the buying plans of farmers and urban dwellers as shown in the first survey.

All results of surveys will be issued in totals only, and individual reports will not be open to scrutiny by anyone. Questionnaires are being distributed to 2,000 farms and 5,000 households, through co-operation of local survey committees set up under jurisdiction of the main survey management committee.

The questionnaires will be followed up by personal interviews when forms will be filled in and data checked for accuracy. Interviewers are being organized for the work by bodies sponsoring the survey, in conjunction with local survey committees.

Reg. T. Rose, Edmonton Chamber of Commerce, is chairman of the survey management committee.

Stove Causes Fire

Fire, caused by overheated stove, damaged the ceiling and two walls of a room in a house owned by Edmond Johnson, 10021 95 street, at 9:56 p.m. Wednesday. The room was said to have been occupied by Mrs. A. E. Ford. Hand pumps were used to douse the flames, the single line of hose laid not being put to use. The building was insured.

Nazi Prisoner Claims Woman Welcomed Him

Reinhold Bauer, German prisoner-of-war charged with indecent assault of Mrs. Naja Hut, wife of a Northville district farmer, told Magistrate Harold L. Howe, K.C. Wednesday afternoon, that the woman had expressed her affection, not in words, but in the responsiveness of her kisses.

The defendant, who entered the witness stand Wednesday morning, had not been cross-examined when the case was adjourned about 4:45 p.m. until Thursday morning.

Bauer told of his offerings of fruit being accepted by Mrs. Hut, as had been his missives containing words of endearment. The family had been loaned a German-English dictionary in order to facilitate speaking when visiting them, he said, adding that the book had not been returned.

LETTER TRANSLATED

A comrade wrote a letter, translating it from German to English, after which he copied it and handed it to Mrs. Hut, the witness said. The letter, which was read to the court, said, in part:

"Please do not be surprised if I make any words to you. I have known you for four weeks and I believe I love you. I have never had courage to tell you. Please give me the answer. I write it down; I have time to translate it. I give you my promise no one will hear about this.

"Affectionately yours, 'Reinhold'."

Asked if he had received a reply, the accused said he had not, as "she had said she did not know what to write."

On a second piece of paper another phrase was written, suggested by another man in the camp. The message simply said, in the Russian language, "My beautiful girl."

"Naja's affections were not expressed in words, but I noticed she was responsive to my kisses," Bauer stated, adding, "She yielded to my embraces, and did not repulse me."

"When did you discover that Hut was in the vicinity?" he was asked. "When he jumped into the room," was the reply.

Asked if he had been surprised, the accused said he was.

WANTED PICTURE

Mrs. Hut had given him a picture and then wanted one of his, the witness continued. She repeated her request for several days before he gave her one of himself taken in Germany.

Guy Patterson, K.C., is acting as crown prosecutor, while J. S. Mavor, K.C., of Calgary has been retained as defence counsel. Lt. A. R. Lendl of Lethbridge internment camp is official interpreter.

The case is continuing.

Students Urge Vets' Committee

Plans for setting up a permanent National Federation of Canadian University Students' constitution and suggestions regarding post war rehabilitation of veterans after the war were discussed at the university conference held at the University of Western Ontario on Dec. 28, 29 and 30 according to Alf Harper, president of the Students' Union of the University of Alberta and representative at the conference. Sixteen universities were represented and twenty-five delegates were present.

The NFCUS, a national organization of university students, which was suspended at the beginning of the war will be re-established and an annual conference will take place. It was recommended that a standard committee on veterans' affairs be set up in every university and it was urged that additional grants to cover expensive tests and equipment in such courses as medicine, be made available to the returning veterans. Veterans wishing to take such highly technical courses as aeronautical engineering which are not offered in Canada, should be permitted to leave the country and study elsewhere, it was proposed.

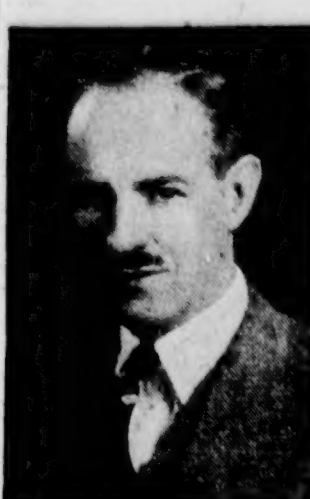

Hugh Leah, London prefect of the Students' Administrative Assembly was elected as chairman. Elizabeth Galbraith, a western Ontario graduate, acted as secretary. Alf Harper, the University of Alberta representative, was head of the committee for the drawing up of the constitution of the NFCUS.

Dick Bibbs of the University of British Columbia, was elected president for next year. Marcel Tremblay of Laval University was made first vice-president and a committee composed of Haldane Reynolds from the Maritimes, Jack Pye from McGill and Bob Ellis from the University of Saskatchewan complete the executive for the coming year.

Mr. MacEwan is well known throughout Western Canada as an authority on all phases of agriculture and is one of the country's leading judges of livestock. ## Oil Exploration Parley Is Planned

Attended by Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of lands and mines, and representatives of the CPR, the Hudson's Bay Company and other large organizations holding mineral rights in Alberta, a conference opened in Calgary Wednesday concerning oil exploration permits. The meeting will discuss a plan under which oil exploration permits applicants would deal directly with the provincial government, rather than with individual owners of mineral rights in a given area. It is felt this plan would encourage oil development to a greater degree than the present system.

Lonesome G.I.'s Learn to Dance: Lessons Free

"A commercial studio would be a gold mine with the classes we get here," Miss Reed laughed, adding, "I have seriously considered opening a studio in Edmonton after the war."

GET AMPLE REWARD

But although there are no financial returns in the Red Cross dancing classes for the teacher, there is the best reward of all in witnessing the social transformation taking place in an awkward, lonely soldier, sailor or airman, after his confidence is built up through dancing lessons.

"We never permit a pupil to stop taking lessons until he feels he can really dance well," Miss Reed said.

Periods of instruction vary, of course, with the individual, the recreation worker said. Some fellows require very little tutelage, others need quite a lot.

But in all cases, unless posting elsewhere cuts the courses short, G.I. pupils are able to hold their own in any ballroom company when they "graduate" from the class.

Miss Reed now has a corps of Edmonton instructors which she has been training for some time. These are city girls anxious to help out in any kind of war work. Naturally they prize the opportunity of learning from an Arthur Murray teacher.

Women in the armed services are eligible for instruction too, but few girls ever seem to require much in the way of dancing instruction.

Every Red Cross centre is not so fortunate as Edmonton as there are few centres with a bona fide Arthur Murray teacher of the staff.

INSTRUCTED LEADERS

Miss Reed has instructed many leaders of public life in the USA in ballroom dancing but it is an understood rule with all Arthur Murray school personnel to never divulge names of students.

The Red Cross dance teacher has also danced with the great Arthur Murray himself. She describes him as being "very shy."

G.I.s and NCOs "cash in" on the grand dancing instruction here because the Edmonton Red Cross centre is a centre for enlisted men only.

Before the Magistrate

"I always get caught," sighed William James, charged before Magistrate Harold L. Howe, K.C. Wednesday morning with intoxication. "I just got out yesterday," he continued hopefully as he admitted having been here on many occasions. The penalty was $40 or six weeks hard labor.

Albert Logan, charged with theft, told the magistrate, to whom he had written a letter asking for leniency, that he had already been in jail lots of times. He was sentenced to four months in Fort Saskatchewan jail.

Thomas Moore, charged with illegal possession of liquor, pleaded guilty to the count and was assessed $20 or 30 days.

Community Meet

Regular monthly meeting of the Federation of Community Leagues will be held in the Council Chamber of the Civic Block at 8 p.m. Thursday. President Percy Cowley will be in the chair.
